

PROGRESS MADE ON LABOR PLAN

Industrial Conference Going Slow, Hopes to Do Much.

METHODS ARE STUDIED

Admit Right to Strike but Attempt Is Made to Devise Settlement Plan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Delegates to the second industrial conference concluded their first week's work today confident that substantial progress had been made toward a program for harmonizing relations between capital and labor.

It is the tentative plan, says the conference, to perhaps have alternative sessions a week up to December 19, by which time it is hoped a preliminary draft of the conference's recommendations will have been finished. Delegates then will be taken over the holidays.

On their return, the delegates will have available the result of investigations by experts into various phases of the industrial situation and will hear the opinion of representatives of labor and capital on the preliminary draft. Being this was presented by a Texan who has been president of the conference while the conference's chairman, W. E. Casebeer, was away.

A major topic comprising a large portion of the meetings which can be seen in over a redraft their recommendations and submit them to the public through the press, hoping to elicit constructive criticism before the final report is prepared.

While definite conclusions were not reported on any of the questions before the conference, it was said that the delegates regarded the first week's work as highly valuable.

Stanley King of Boston, summarizing the results, declared the conference had proved the value of the first conference and was progressing fast in the discussion of machines and machinery, rather than to stimulate a set of strikes.

The subject has been divided into three phases affecting workers in the service of the state or public utilities, of public utilities and private industries. As regards both employed by federal, state or municipal governments and by private utilities, the conference is discussing whether there is a right to strike and what methods should be set up by an industrial tribunal.

The right to strike has been questioned in the case of employees of the state or private utilities so that the conference has been asked to present the recommendations submitted by the state or private utilities.

After discussion of these, the conference takes up the question of presenting disputes and bad before the examination of various plants with shop committees and shop committees when adjournment was

ROBBERS TAKE NARCOTICS

Eight Fingered Gentry Also Burglarize Three Santa Fe Cars.

Special to The World.

ELGIN, Ill., Dec. 6.—Approximately $30 worth of narcotics were stolen from the Wilkinson Bros. drug store here last night. Nothing outside of the store of morphine, codine and cocaine was taken by the burglars.

Three merchandise cars on the Santa Fe lines were found burglarized when opened today. No estimate of the loss has been made as yet.

No Papers in Madrid.

MADRID, Dec. 6.—No newspapers were published yesterday due to the prevalence of strikes, when there are no funds to meet the salary were received. A composite newspaper such as the editors of Paris published during the recent strike there, will be issued tomorrow.
